

While the invention has been described in connection with a preferred embodiment, it is not intended to limit the scope of the invention to the particular form set forth, but on the contrary, it is intended to cover such alternatives, modifications, and equivalents as may be included within the spirit and scope of the invention as defined by the appended claims.

Claims

What is claimed is:

1. An apparatus for attaching to a book that provides a portable writing platform for either right or left handed persons comprising:
 - (a) two surfaces that are separated by a divider creating a channel to fit over a book cover as a means to secure the apparatus to the book whereby allowing apparatus to be used without damaging the book.
 - (b) a third surface placed between the two said surfaces that slides out and away from the book to create a surface used as a writing platform.
 - (c) a fastening means such as posts for attaching the three surfaces and holding said surfaces into their proper positions.
 - (d) slots cut through the said third surface to create a channel for the writing platform to slide out utilizing the fasteners as a guide.